

A Witness to Sarcasm or Wit

---

To 'wit' is to know.

I attest through the reasoning power of my intuitive senses. These are my wits.

My wits are my ability to reason with emotional intelligence.

I 'bear witness' when I attest my genuine truth.

The unawakened soul uses their five physical senses to participate & compete in life using their reasoning power.

The awakened soul uses their wit or knowing to attest & affirm the authentic truth of their life path.

The awakened witness observes and the awakened observer witnesses.

"To wit" means the manifestation of one's knowing, in each present moment.

When "God is my witness" I am using my Divine Senses of Seeing, Knowing and Feeling.

A Great Wit understands the irony of the Comedy of the Duality in the paradox of life.

Sarcasm or Wit

The distinction between sarcasm and wit is a matter of the polarity of my perspective.

A witticism, or witty remark, highlights the irony of an oxymoron, where duality or paradox are seen from an abnormal context.

When I am detached with the source of my humour, I can look positively at its wit. When I am attached to the negativity of an issue, it becomes caustic, offensive and bitter sarcasm.

Prejudice and resentment create a sarcastic viewpoint, whereas equality and acceptance allow and approve of wit and humour.

The more accepting that I am of my Self, the less sensitive that I am to sarcasm and the freer I am to laugh at my wit.

"God has a sense of humour". It is called intuitive wit.

The more open that I become to who I am being, the more I can see the bigger picture of who I am, appreciate the paradoxes of life, and understand the irony that dual reality existence creates.

My Inner Coach has a sense of humour delivered with positive wit, never with negative sarcasm.

My journey in the realm of relative duality requires me to enjoy a sense of humour that allows me to 'laugh off' the absurdity of the dramas that I create in my life.

Life becomes a matter of life and death when I treat it seriously. With humour and wit I can safely witness the Lighter side of Life.

Witness

Witness is the attainment of wit.

With the attainment of wit, I become a Witness because I have attained witness.

Having witness is the ability to see the bigger picture of life.

I am a witness to life rather than a participator, a competitor or a spectator.

I spectate with my 5 physical senses.

I witness with my 3 intuitive senses.

Connected to my senses of intuition, I have my wits about me.

The Seer sees the big picture of life.

The Gnostic knows the expansiveness of life.

The Sensitive feels the magnitude of life.

The Witness witnesses the expansive magnitude of the bigger picture of life.

With my Witness, I can indulge in the serious humour of a relative existence.

“As my Soul is my Witness”.
